76	Comments: I applied for the ADLP a few years ago in 2005 - why wasn't I selected I am also curious about the following: 1. How many Black candidates have been selected/completed GSA's ADLP in the years 2005, 2006 and 2007 in comparison to White candidates What is the ratio 2. Of the Blacks who participated-how many were actually promoted without competition How many whites have been promoted since completing the program without competition 3. How does the ADLP compare to an Advanced Doctoral Degree in Business/Leadership.

90	Comments: Requesting the following: 1. The Levitate the Pentagon March, which occurred on and around October 21st, 1967. David Dellinger was the demonstration coordinator with the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam. From what I understand from newspapers written at the time, the GSA negotiated the permit with the demonstrators regarding the routes for their march, use of the North parking lot near the Pentagon for sit-ins and vigils, what buildings they were and weren't allowed to enter, timeframes, and repercussions for violating terms of the permit. Harry R. VanCleve was the GSA employee connected to the permits as mentioned in the New York Times (Oct 18, 1967). 2. The second demonstration was on March 17, 2007, also to the pentagon. The organization coordinating the march was the ANSWER (Act Now to Stop War and End Racism) coalition.

1350	Comments: No disrespect intended, but I find the GSA website very cluttered and difficult to search and use. I am looking for a single document and cannot find it. The media reported the following: "The General Services Administration has issued a Request For Quotation for cloud storage, Web hosting, and virtual machine services." See for example: http://www.informationweek.com/news/government/cloud-saas/showArticle.jhtmlarticleID=218900541 Media articles point to a scribd.com link which carries a portion of the RFQ. Downloading that portion of the RFQ from scribd.com requires registration with scribd.com. That is not an appropriate requirement for accessing government materials. I wonder if you can provide me with either a copy of the referenced RFQ, or a link where I can download it from the GSA website.

1399	Comments: According to the federal government's stimulus funds website: The General Services Administration has received $5.5 billion in funds from the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act. The GSA has designated more than 250 projects that will utilize these funds to build new federal buildings (courthouses and ports of entry) that are energy efficient, as well as weatherize existing buildings to improve efficiency and reduce water and energy consumption. Two Federal Buildings in our area are on the list to get funds. One is in Cincinnati, OH and one in Covington, KY. Both are listed as High Performing Green Buildings. I would like to file an open records request to find out how much is being spent on each building; What the money is being used for; and when work is scheduled to begin. Also, if there is a person to whom I could address follow up questions either locally or nationally I would appreciate it."
